The Four Educational Facets of the CICS/Nimbus CIT program:

- Vocational - We provide training and curriculum designed to build skills necessary to obtain and keep a job. This begins with generalized curriculum and then becomes personalized as participants begin to explore the job market, apply for jobs, participate in numerous practice interviews, including constructive feedback and navigate how employment changes their life dynamic.

- Life Skills - A wide variety of skills necessary to adult living are covered by this facet, including: safety in the community, making friends, romantic relationships, sex education, banking & finance, review of multiple religions and lifestyles, navigation, exercise, healthy eating and many others.

- Self-Advocacy - Our most requested facet, we provide training in understanding and advocating for your rights, learning to find your voice, and how to advocate for yourself in multiple settings, including: with friends, family, education, medical decisions, where to live, relationships, goals, dreams, ambitions and other settings.

- Recreation & Leisure - To truly enjoy life, we explore a variety of physical and leisure pursuits and emphasize less reliance on electronic entertainment and more on social and athletic pursuits as well as solitude and how to enjoy being alone when we wish.
